▶ Work began Thursday on the demolition of the former A&B Sound building at the corner of Portage Avenue and Donald Street. Demolition is expected to take four to six weeks and crews will also take down the Wild Planet building and part of the Mitchell Copp building over the coming months.

Before the tower rises...

Once the buildings are leveled work will begin on building the foundation for Longboat Development Corporation's mixed-use tower, 311 Portage Avenue at Centrepoint and the Groupe Germains's ALT Hotel. The 200,000-square-foot project will incorporate a new 20-storey tower.

A winter without the deep freeze — or so says Rob

- Weather website watches the skies from Charleswood
- Creator takes his work home with him

SHANE GIBSON
@METRONEWS.CA

While it may come as a surprise to hear it's been the fourth warmest winter on record and the mercury hasn't dipped below -30 C in Winnipeg this winter, it's old news for the creator of a privately run Winnipeg weather website.

Rob's Obs, short for Rob's Observations, is updated with live weather data collected from a high-end weather station in the creator's backyard every five minutes.

Rob admits to being a bit of a weather-junkie.

"It is part job, part hobby, and part passion for me," said Rob, who has worked as a meteorologist with Environment Canada for 26 years, and asked to remain anonymous. "I've always been interested in meteorology as far back as when I was a teenager."

Rob started the website as a hobby in 2001 after buying and installing a weather station at his Charleswood home that can automatically upload data to his website.

"I started it up to provide a little more information than you might find elsewhere," explained Rob. "It's a more interactive way of keeping on top of the weather."

The site provides up-to-the-minute temperature, wind, precipitation, and humidity information as well as forecasts, radar, and satellite imagery.

What started as a way of mixing business with pleasure for the creator has morphed into something much larger — his site averages 200 hits per day, but has seen as many as 1,000 on days when severe weather strikes.

To keep up with the demand Rob has also set up a blog and a Twitter account, and laughs when asked if his weather knowledge makes him better at small talk than the rest of us.

"Or most boring, depending on your point of view," he said.

Find Rob's weather observations on Twitter under the handle @robsobs.

4th warmest on record

Other meteorologists confirmed this has been the fourth-warmest winter on record, and it's been more than 70 years since Winnipeg last had a winter where the mercury didn't dip below -30C.

Make bullying a crime: Manitobans

The power of pink just got stronger.

A new Angus Reid poll released Wednesday shows a majority of Manitobans think bullying should be a crime.

Fifty-eight per cent of those polled in Manitoba and Saskatchewan said they believe bullying should be a crime, even with no physical violence.

Across Canada, the online survey of 1,006 Canadian adults found that 65 per cent of respondents believe bullying should be considered a criminal activity.

The results were released on National Pink Shirt Day, a campaign that encourages students to wear something pink to show they don't tolerate bullying.

Bullying itself is not an offence under the Criminal Code, but behaviours associated with it, such as harassment, mischief, theft and uttering threats, can lead to criminal charges.

The poll also found there's overwhelming support for legislation against cyber-bullying, with nine in 10 Canadians saying they would like to see a law enacted in their own province similar to one proposed in the U.S. that would make it illegal to use electronic means to "coerce, intimidate, harass or cause other substantial emotional distress."

A large proportion of Canadians believe high school (94 per cent) is the worst environment for bullying, followed by elementary school (88 per cent) and college and university (43 per cent), the report found. PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS

Poor score for Disraeli Bridge

Report rated bridge a 3 out of 10 one month before a woman plunged to her death in her SUV

ELISHA DACEY
@METRONEWS.CA

A report obtained by Global Winnipeg says the guard rails on the Disraeli Bridge were found to be in "poor" condition a month before a young Winnipeg woman plunged to her death in her SUV.

On Jan. 19, Kaitlyn Fraser, 19, lost control of her SUV and hit the rail on the Disraeli Bridge as she travelled northbound. The SUV smashed through the rail, teetered on the edge of the bridge for a moment then fell to the river below. The SUV hit the ice surface of the Red River. Fraser later died in hospital.

City officials said afterwards the rails had been deemed safe in an inspection done a month earlier. Global Winnipeg obtained the report through an access to information request.

A City of Winnipeg spokesperson confirmed the report states the guardrail, sidewalk, curb and pedestrian rail were all rated as poor and given a safety rating of three out of 10. One means immediate action is needed, while a two rating means critical condition.

City officials said the railing was still safe, although admitted if it had garnered a two rating, the bridge would have been shut down.

The Disraeli bridge is currently being replaced as the city has determined it has reached the end of its lifespan.

Man says doctors operated on wrong leg

Rick Campbell says he hasn't been able to return to work and feels the procedure has left him disabled

A Manitoba man says he went into a Winnipeg hospital hoping to improve his mobility but left barely able to walk.

Rick Campbell of Clandeboye, Man., says he had surgery on a torn Achilles tendon at Seven Oaks Hospital last March.

But he says they operated on the wrong leg.

A year later, Campbell says he still hasn't been able to return to work and feels the mistake has left him disabled.

He says he didn't come forward earlier because he didn't want anything to affect his treatment, but says he's going public now after learning of other medical issues at the same hospital.

A critical review is underway at Seven Oaks after a Winnipeg woman was sent home following a series of tests, later collapsed on her front porch and couldn't be revived.

The woman's daughter is calling for answers regarding what happened.

But Campbell says he has no faith those answers will come.

"They're going to call her in after they do the investigation and tell her this is what we found and this is what we're going to do to change it and nothing is going to change," he says.

The Winnipeg Regional Health Authority said patients have the right to know right away when an error was made.

"We have a responsibility to disclose all information, all known facts, what we learned, what the recommendations are and what are we going to change, arising from that particular situation," said spokesman Real Cloutier.

Gang investigation nets drugs, weapons

Winnipeg police have arrested several people after an investigation into an emerging street level gang centred in Winnipeg's south end netted drugs, weapons and cash.

Seven males were arrested following three separate traffic stops near Pembina Highway Wednesday. Following the arrests, a drug search warrant was executed at an unreleased location where a lone teenaged female was located and taken into custody. SHANE GIBSON

Full-throttle mystery

Derailed VIA train had been doing almost 108 km/h
Switch under investigation requires slowing to 24 km/h

A passenger train that derailed while switching tracks — killing three engineers and injuring 45 passengers — was travelling at almost 108 km/h when it derailed west of Toronto on Sunday, says The Transportation Safety Board.

The speed limit while changing tracks at that particular switch is 24 kilometres.

"While we know the excess speed caused the derailment, this is not the end of the investigation," lead investigator Tom Griffith said Thursday. "It's only the beginning.

"We need to figure out why. We need to understand the environment in which the crew was operating and why they made the decisions they did."

Griffith said the train's black box also shows the brakes were not applied before the crash.

When asked if track signals to alert the crew were working, Griffith replied: "Were the signals 100 per cent? We don't know that right now." He said there's no indication the signals were malfunctioning, adding he doesn't know why the brakes weren't applied, or why the speed was so high.

Two of the engineers, Peter Snarr, 52, and Ken Simmonds, 56, both of Toronto, were experienced drivers, each with more than 30 years in the industry. A trainee, Patrick Robinson, 40, of Cornwall, Ont., joined them in the cab to observe.

"We had three experienced people at the front of that train. Why were they doing that? That's what we have to find out."
TOM GRIFFITH, LEAD INVESTIGATOR

The switch involved requires the train to slow to 24 kilometres instead of the usual 72 kilometres.

Teen seriously hurt in car-surfing stunt

A car-surfing incident has left a 19-year-old Ontario man with life-threatening head injuries and the driver facing criminal charges.

Police say the man was standing on the hood of a Toyota as it drove down a street in Ajax, just east of Toronto, on Wednesday night. Witnesses tell police the car braked, sending the man flying off the hood to the asphalt. He's in a trauma unit at a Toronto hospital.

The 19-year-old man police say was the driver Ali Malik, is charged with dangerous driving and dangerous driving causing bodily harm. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tories deny foul robocalls

The Conservative party says it didn't use U.S.-based call services to get out the vote in the May election, but the Liberals did.

The Tories say that means they can't be behind allegations of harassing phone calls originating from American area codes during the last campaign, but maybe the Liberals were.

Many people have reported receiving strange calls, some from American numbers, during the May election that either misled them about polling stations or came at odd hours.

Elections Canada is investigating the origin of calls made in the riding of Guelph, but a stream of people from other ridings are also complaining about suspect calls.

Pricey ad campaign touts Tory budget

When Finance Minister Jim Flaherty announced this week that March 29 will be federal budget day, the very first words out of his mouth heralded the coming "Jobs and Growth Budget."

If the phrase sounds vaguely familiar, it should.

Taxpayers are footing the bill for a $12.4-million government ad campaign with one common message: "creating jobs and growth." Complementary campaigns by Finance Canada and the Canada Revenue Agency ran throughout February and will continue through March, backstopping the Harper government's message. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Metro to add more cities

Metro Canada is expanding to six new cities in April, the newspaper announced Thursday.

Metro will launch a daily print edition in Saskatoon and Regina on April 2, along with a website and mobile news apps for iPhone, iPad and Android.

The company will also launch digital only in Hamilton, Kitchener and Windsor in Ontario, and in Victoria, B.C..

The launches mean Metro products, including the French-language paper in Montreal, will now be available in 15 of Canada's top 17 metropolitan areas.

"I am delighted to lead this remarkable opportunity as we partner with the communities of Saskatoon and Regina," said Steve Shrout, vice-president and group publisher for western Canada. "We look forward to offering a fresh, urban news perspective in Canada's most vibrant Prairie communities."

▶ Company's new data-collection policy raises concerns ▶ May be in contravention of European data laws

Google's contentious new privacy policy officially took effect Thursday, despite some objections from Canada's privacy commissioner and others around the world.

The main concern being raised by most critics is how Google will now start saving user information collected from all its services in one place. For example, users who log into several different services — such as Google.ca, Gmail and YouTube — will have data about all their searches and clicks stored together.

Users can stop this data consolidation from happening by staying logged out when using the search engine or YouTube, or by having separate logins for each different site.

"You are going to be using the information in new ways — ways that may make some users uncomfortable."

8 Ginger Ale on plane: It might well be because people associate it with treating motion sickness (it settles the stomach), but have you ever noticed that basically 50 per cent of people on a plane order ginger ale? Culinary rebellion

A cook that plays with his food

Emile Picard samples some fresh maple syrup poured on snow at the Au Pieds de Cochon sugar shack Thursday in St-Benoit-de-Mirabel, Que., but don't tell the folks at this Ottawa winter festival about Martin Picard's latest creation.

If organizers forbade him from serving foie gras at last year's event because of a backlash by animal-rights activists that prompted him to cancel his appearance altogether, it's unlikely he'd be invited back to cook his new dish, named "Confederation Beaver" — that is, the buck-toothed national emblem stuffed with its own tail in a slow-cooked sauce of cream and pig's blood.

The second cookbook from the celebrity Montreal chef emphasizes a philosophy of cuisine that made him a hero to like-minded foodies. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sugar Shack

RYAN REMIORZ/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A lobster and smoked-meat omelette is one of the featured menu items at the Au Pieds de Cochon sugar shack.

A must-read

The cookbook has a section with lessons such as how to skin the fur from forest rodents and how to braise a beaver's tail until it's suitable for stuffing.

It also contains an illustrated history of sugar shacks filled with anecdotes, a guide to producing maple syrup, a story envisioning a post-apocalyptic world where all that's left is the sugar shack, and more. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Synopsis

In this adaptation of Dr. Seuss's most serious book, 12-year-old Ted (voice of Zac Efron), hopes to impress a girl (Taylor Swift) by giving her a tree. You see, she's never seen a real one because they live in Thneedville, a town where everything is fake. Even the trees are battery operated. His search for the tree leads him to the Once-ler (Ed Helms), the keeper of the last tree seed, who tells him about The Lorax (Danny DeVito) and why all the trees disappeared.

One for the trees

The Lorax is light on plot, but still carries the strong pro-environmental overtones that made the Dr. Seuss story controversial

Reel Guys
RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

Richard: Mark, by and large, I liked The Lorax. It has some good characters, a strong central message for kids (particularly if they are interested in gardening) and some good laughs, but I left the theatre with the unshakeable feeling that It would have made a better short film. At 70 pages, the book doesn't quite offer up enough to fill out a feature length movie. It felt padded and not quite what the Dr. Seuss ordered. You?

MB: It wasn't the padding that bothered me as much as the hectoring tone of its pro-environmental, anti-entrepreneurial message. Finally, a film for the whole Socialist family! But the great eye candy and production numbers puts this kid flick in the plus column for me. Surely you liked the chorus of singing goldfish?

RC: The goldfish are part Andrews Sisters, part Greek Chorus and are the best thing in the movie. Loved them, and I liked much of the movie, but it just didn't feel Suessy or Seussian, or whatever the word would be, enough. Kids will like the cute creatures and the Lorax's giant orange handlebar 'stache, but for me it was too frenetic to be considered a faithful translation of a Seuss book.

MB: I never read the book so I had no expectations. I guess the obvious thing that's missing is Seuss' trademark rhyming dialogue. But I thought the movie was true to his visual style. And I was grateful that it was animated rather than those horrible live action Seuss adaptations using over-caffeinated comedians.

RC: Tell me about it. The best Seuss adaptation starred horror legend Boris Karloff! The Grinch Who Stole Christmas is the benchmark; it really brings the good doctor's characters to life. The Lorax, for all its charms, doesn't really feel like Dr. Seuss. It just doesn't feel green-eggs-and-hammy, or in non-Seuss terms, magical enough. Do you think kids will like it? Will they get the 'save the planet' message?

MB: I think it's aimed at kids four to nine. The message is so explicit it would be hard to miss. Parents can enjoy it for the visual imagery and pop culture jokes. But it doesn't have the depth of a Pixar film or classic Disney.

Scene in brief

The Hunger Games author Suzanne Collins has given a big thumbs up to the upcoming film version of her million-selling dystopian novel. In a message that appeared Thursday on the Facebook page of The Hunger Games, Collins wrote that she was "really happy" with the movie. She praised director Gary Ross for remaining faithful to the book. The film will be released March 23.

Kitsch keeps grounded

Actor Taylor Kitsch has a big year ahead with lead roles in two major films, including John Carter Why he tries to stay out of Hollywood

HANDOUT

John Carter hits theatres next Friday.

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Taylor Kitsch is well aware that a lot is riding on 2012 for him, career-wise. With lead roles in a pair of presumed blockbusters — this month's John Carter followed by Battleship in May — and Oliver Stone's Savages later this year, Kitsch is set to have his status in Hollywood solidified one way or the other. But he has other things on his mind — and a house to finish.

Your face basically is the marketing campaign for John Carter.

Yeah, yeah. I mean, that is something you never, ever get used to. I think it really is a once-in-a-lifetime kind of year for me coming up with these three films. It's insane. I think it's also a cool moment just to have within yourself, like it's really come full-circle for the most part through the struggle or whatever it was to get to this point.

You've referred to living in Austin as "staying out of the s---" and avoiding the trappings of Hollywood. How do you manage that?

I think because of having a later start and knowing who I am and being grounded within myself, I don't need that to be validated. That's a big thing for me, and I truly am in it for just the work. Even at the beginning, people were like, "Maybe you should go to this party to meet this guy," and I never wanted to or never will get a job that way — to schmooze, to do this and that. I'll get it through my work. That's the way I am, and Austin is just an amazing escape.

And being Canadian doesn't hurt, right?

Yeah, my Canadian upbringing, man. My mom raised us three boys by herself. To say the least, we didn't have a lot of money. And it's the core things that truly matter at the end of the day anyways, so to be in front of all that stuff, you're able to laugh at it rather than need it. That's the difference.

Ghosts of franchises past

Before John Carter and Battleship, Taylor Kitsch made a leap into big-budget franchises by playing Gambit in 2009's Wolvernine. There was talk before the film's release of jumping into a Gambit spin-off film. After the release, not so much. So what happened? "I think it was just really s---- in the sense of it being put out there before it was ready," Kitsch says of Wolverine and the reception it received. "I don't know if they ever came back from that kind of buzz, which is just an unfair thing."

Movie reviews

Project X
Genre: Comedy
Director: Nima Nourizadeh
Stars: Thomas Mann, Oliver Cooper, Jonathan Daniel Brown

Costa, Thomas and JB are three nerdy high school kids who, like every other high school kid in every other high school movie, decide to throw a house party that will get them noticed and attract otherwise unattainable ladies.

Thomas (Mann), whose parents are out of town for the weekend, wants to throw himself a birthday bash that will be "big enough to be cool." He figures 50 people maximum should do the trick. But his foul-mouthed friend, Costa (Cooper, who makes Jonah Hill in Superbad look saintly), has other plans.

He spreads the word through every medium possible — including Craigslist — and suddenly this cool-but-manageable party gets absolutely out of control (think the nights the Hangover guys can't remember, but with more drinking, drugs and damage).Though you've probably heard all the jokes before in any number of the teen party movies that have come before it, you've never really seen a party like this one. Project X, after all, tells the story of "the most epic high school party ever."

REGAN REID

We Need to Talk About Kevin
Genre: Drama
Director: Lynne Ramsay
Stars: Tilda Swinton, John C. Reilly, Ezra Miller

Kevin (Miller) has had severe emotional problems all his life. He's cruel, manipulative, rebellious, apparently consumed with hatred targeted at his sister and mother Eva (Swinton). But her husband (Reilly) loves the boy and can't accept her reports of him forcing a pet hamster down the sink food crusher, or injuring his baby sister or masturbating in front of her. Eva is completely isolated and ruled by Kevin. One day, she's proven right when he commits an unthinkable crime. A new kind of suffering begins as the vigilantes and hatemongers show up. Ramsay's raw family portrait focuses on the natural born bully, his power and asks how he came to be. Swinton is transcendent, as always, and her fragile/strong duality is put to good use, but Miller is amazing.

MUSIC RELEASES FOR SPRING

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

Now that spring is within sight, plans are well underway when it comes to some major releases that will be with us well into the fall and toward Christmas. And there are some big names on this list.

Bruce Springsteen and The E-Street Band/Wrecking Ball (Tuesday)

The Boss' 17th studio album is an angry affair, a protest against the things and the people that brought about The Great Recession on America. Springsteen says that the record has a lot in common with 1982's Nebraska.

Meat Loaf/Hell in a Handbasket (Mar. 13)

Yes, Mr. Aday is back, although fans know that this record was released in Australia back in the fall. Co-writers on the record include Dave Kurshner (Velvet Revolver) and Canada's Tom Cochrane.

Chris Brown/Fortune (Mar. 16)

Despite a heavy effort to rehabilitate his image after the Rihanna incident, things haven't been going all that well. What will the marketplace say when his fifth album comes out in a couple of weeks?

Adam Lambert/Trespassing (Mar. 20)

Second album from the American Idol dude just before he goes on the road as the new lead singer for Queen this summer.

Madonna/MDNA (Mar. 27)

It's hoping that Madge will give the industry a big boost with a world tour and this new album. However, Give Me All Your Luvin' has, shall we say, been something of a disappointment for her and Interscope, her new label. Was that a stumble out of the gate or the portent of something more dire?

It's hoping that Madge will give the industry a big boost with a world tour and this new album. However, Give Me All Your Luvin' has, shall we say, been something of a disappointment

Nicki Minaj/Pink Friday: Roman Reloaded (April 3):

One of Minaj's alter-egos, Roman Zolanski, returns with some new adventures. No, I didn't get the Grammy performance, either.

Bonnie Raitt/Slipstream (Apr. 10)

Ms Raitt's 16th album and her first since 2005. Will she have her first gold album in a decade?

Train/California 37 (Apr. 17)

The Drops of Jupiter/Calling All Angels band from San Francisco return after three years hoping for more American Music Awards and Grammy nominations like they got last time.

Jack White/Blunderbuss (Apr. 24)

After an entire career of working within bands (White Stripes, Raconteurs, Dead Weather) or working behind the scenes with older stars (Loretta Lynn, Wanda Jackson, Tom Jones), Jack is finally putting his own name front-and-centre. He's off to a great start with the first single, Love Interruption.

Happy birthday indeed, Bieber

Seems like just yesterday he was a fresh-faced kid singing his heart out on YouTube ◗ Justin celebrates his 18th year by spending big money

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON

Happy birthday indeed, Bieber.

When you're the most famous 18-year-old in the world, cake ain't cutting it. No, Justin Bieber had a much better Thursday than you did.

Let's start with the gifts. On Wednesday, Bieber's manager stopped by The Ellen DeGeneres Show to surprise him with a Fisker Karma — that's an eco-friendly sports car for all of you Kia drivers — estimated to be worth at least $100,000.

As for himself, Bieber is looking to buy two L.A.-area mansions priced between six and eight million dollars, according to TMZ.

Yesterday, we can only assume that he drove his new car to scope out his potential new Hollywood pads — when he wasn't parachuting or hitting up his dinner party, that is.

Justin! The whole point of being 18 is that you don't yet need to buy things to make you happy. Have fun, kid, but we hope you have some serious funds set aside for 28. MONICA WEYMOUTH/ DOROTHY ROBINSON WILL RETURN TUESDAY

Clooney at peace with gay rumours

Despite a steady stream of attractive girlfriends, George Clooney still gets hounded by gay rumours — not that he's complaining.

"I think it's funny, but the last thing you'll ever see me do is jump up and down, saying, 'These are lies!' That would be unfair and unkind to my good friends in the gay community," Clooney tells the Advocate.

"I'm not going to let anyone make it seem like being gay is a bad thing. My private life is private, and I'm very happy in it."

And as for the rumours and speculation, Clooney says he's come to terms with them.

"Who does it hurt if someone thinks I'm gay? I'll be long dead and there will still be people who say I was gay. I don't give a s—," he says. METRO

Jennifer Garner and Ben Affleck have revealed the name of their newborn son. "We are happy to announce on Feb. 27, Jennifer gave birth to a healthy baby boy, Samuel Garner Affleck," the proud dad posted on Facebook. Samuel joins sisters Violet and Seraphina. METRO

Now that's a nip slip

Beyoncé turned heads recently during a lunch date in New York's West Village when she was spotted breastfeeding her newborn daughter, Blue Ivy Carter, according to Us Weekly. These savoury Cheddar Shortbread Diamonds make elegant nibbles to enjoy with wine

DAIRYGOODNESS.CA

▶ This recipe makes about 56 diamonds.

Preparation:

1. In food processor, pulse red pepper until finely chopped. Add Canadian Old White Cheddar cheese, butter, flour, sugar, chili powder and salt. Pulse until dough starts to hold, adding water bit at a time until dough holds together when squeezed.

2. Turn out dough into bowl and knead lightly into a smooth dough. Shape into flat square. On sheet of parchment paper with a floured rolling pin, roll out to a 9-inch (23 cm) square, about 1/2-inch (1 cm) thick. Slide onto a baking sheet and refrigerate 20 mins or until cold.

3. Using knife, cut square into 8 equal strips. On diagonal, make seven cuts along each strip, about 1 inch (2.5 cm) apart, into 56 diamonds (there will be triangles at the ends of the strips – either press together into diamonds or bake as triangles). Lightly brush tops with egg white and sprinkle with coarse sea salt. Separate shortbread pieces on the parchment so they are at least 1/2 inch (1 cm) apart.

4. In preheated 350 F (180 C) oven, bake one sheet at a time, for 27 mins or until firm and just starting to turn golden around the edges. Let cool on pan 3 mins. then transfer to rack. Serve warm or let cool.

DAIRYGOODNESS.CA/ ADAPTED BY EMILY RICHARDS (PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND TV CELEBRITY CHEF. FOR MORE VISIT, EMILYRICHARDSCOOK.CA)

Ingredients:

- 1/2 cup (125 mL) coarsely chopped sweet red pepper
- 1-1/2 cups (375 mL) shredded Canadian Old White Cheddar cheese (about 6 oz/ 175 g)
- 1/2 cup (125 mL) cold butter, cut into cubes
- 2 cups (500 mL) all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp (10 mL) granulated sugar
- 1 tsp (5 mL) ancho chili powder
- 1/4 tsp (1 mL) salt
- 2 tbsp (30 mL) water (approx.)
- 1 egg white, beaten
- Coarse sea salt

Love wine – inside & out

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

I'm glad you can't tell a wine by its label. If you could, there'd be an awful lot of boring juice on the shelves.

You can blame the trend in ho-hum bottle bling on the critter label backlash a few years back. Once customers got sick of cartoon animals on their wine bottles, marketers couldn't sink the ark fast enough and set sail on the good ship mundane.

Argentina and South Africa are major offenders. Their sections look like wallpaper with one cookie cutter label after another.

I have a place in my heart for any winery that shows as much inventiveness outside the bottle as it does in. The People's 2010 Pinot Noir ($16.95 - $19.99) from New Zealand wins on both fronts.

Designed by kiwi artist Martin Poppelwell, its label font has an urban vibe reminiscent of a bistro's chalkboard wine list.

The liquid has a hip, bright flavour that oozes plump strawberry and subtle tannins, which pairs well with roast poultry and lighter meat dishes. PRICES RFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Enjoy this uniquely Canadian pizza that employs cheese curds, typically used in poutine

THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

▶ This pizza serves six to eight people.

Preparation:

1. In saucepan, set over medium heat, simmer red pepper in chili sauce and water 5 mins. or until tender. Scrape into a small food chopper or blender and puree until smooth; set aside.

2. In nonstick skillet cook beef until no longer pink. Add the zucchini, eggplant, mushrooms and onion to beef and cook for about 5 mins. or until tender. Stir in red pepper sauce, tomato paste and basil until combined; set aside.

3. On work surface, sprinkle some cornmeal, then using a rolling pin, roll out pizza dough. Dough must be large enough to cover bottom and sides of ovenproof skillet roughly 30 cm (12 inches) in diameter and 2.5 cm (1 inch) deep. Place dough in skillet and fill with beef-vegetable mixture.

4. Top with cheese curds, fold in any dough exceeding skillet edge. Place skillet in centre of 200 C (400 F) oven and bake for 30 minutes or until dough is golden. Sprinkle with Parmesan and bake for another 5 mins.

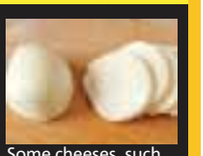
Stretching meals



Some cheeses, such as stretch mozzarella, have unique melting and stretching abilities. Here are three ways to enjoy it.

1. Replace cheddar with stretch mozzarella in Mexican lasagna, burritos, quesadillas and enchiladas to put a new twist on fiesta favourites.

2. Sprinkle shredded stretch mozzarella on your favourite soup and enjoy the buttery strings of cheese with every spoonful.

3. Topping your burger with a slice of Mozzarellissima adds a melt-in-your-mouth quality, and enhances the flavour of burger toppings.

Return to Ottawa just one challenge for CFL's top dog

Mark Cohon's second tour of duty as CFL commissioner looks to be a busy one.

Last month, Cohon signed a three-year extension to continue on the job he assumed in 2007 when he succeeded Tom Wright. Cohon has helped bring stability to the league but there is plenty more to do.

This year's Grey Cup at Toronto's Rogers Centre marks the 100th anniversary of the CFL's championship game. Once that's done, there will be negotiations on a new television deal — the present one with TSN expires after the 2013 season.

And in 2014, Cohon hopes the league will be back in Ottawa with an expansion franchise kicking off its return in a new Frank Clair Stadium.

The 45-year-old Cohon says he still loves the challenge.

"It's work that in the end you know you're really making an impact, a difference, not even just for the teams and the players but also the country," Cohon said in an interview. "And that's when you wake up and say, 'Hey, I have a job that really matters,' and that's why I like it."

Kane leads Jets in rout of Panthers

Scores two goals, adds two assists in big win over division rival

Evander Kane scored twice and added two assists as the Winnipeg Jets routed the Florida Panthers 7-0 on Thursday.

Ondrej Pavelec made 33 saves to earn his fourth shutout this season for Winnipeg (31-27-8), while Kyle Wellwood and Blake Wheeler both had a goal and an assist. Jim Slater, Bryan Little and Nik Antropov also scored.

Jose Theodore made 20 saves on 24 shots in the start for Florida (30-21-12), which had a three-game winning streak snapped. He was pulled after Little's goal made it 4-0 at the 4:35 mark of the third period. Scott Clemmensen made five stops on eight shots in relief.

JETS	PANTHERS
7	0

The victory helped the Jets gain ground on Florida in the Southeast Division, putting them two points behind the division-leading Panthers and one point ahead of idle Washington.

Florida, which sits third in the Eastern Conference, has three games in hand on the Jets, as does Washington, which next plays Friday at home against New Jersey.

Little's goal at 4:35 of the third came on a rare five-on-one, with Florida defenceman Erik Gudbranson the lone man back.

Jets defenceman Randy Jones sent a short pass to Wheeler, who passed the puck across the net to Little and he popped it in over Theodore.

The fans stood and gave the players a standing ovation for the rare attack.

Kane is on a career-best eight-game points streak with seven goals and seven assists.

The crowd started chanting "We want perfect" as they cheered for a shutout.

Wheeler netted the game's final marker at 17:58 as Winnipeg tied a franchise record for single-period goals with five in the third.

Florida has won three of five meetings with the Jets this season. They play once more in Florida.

Winnipeg is now (4-1-2) in an eight-game homestand. THE CANADIAN PRESS

♈ Aries March 21-April 20
As mind planet Mercury moves into your sign, you must set your sights higher. Aim for the top.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21
You need to branch out on your own and do things that benefit you, not other people. That might sound a bit selfish but it's OK.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21
You may be a bit quiet today. But with Mercury moving into the friendship area of your chart, you won't be withdrawn for long.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22
Some comments that come your way today will be unflattering but there is no point reacting to them.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23
Your life is complicated enough as it is without taking on even more responsibilities. You should be looking for ways to do less.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22
Hold out for what you are worth, even if those who control the purse strings warn that you risk ending up with nothing.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23
What looks like a setback early in the day will turn out to be just what you need later in the day.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22
Some things are important and some things are not. Leave the trivial stuff for trivial people.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21
Focus on what you enjoy doing today, even if loved ones keep telling you it isn't productive.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20
You may be tempted to take some kind of gamble today, most likely because someone you are close to emotionally expects it of you.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18
Keep things simple over the next 24 hours and ignore the nagging thought you are not using your time and energy as wisely.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20
There are wonderful opportunities coming your way. Luck is what you make of it. SALLY BROMPTON
